

Seneca's students paint the town!

Photos by Judith Beaudet Reed

Actually, they painted the fire hydrants with a bright new coat of red paint to spiff up Seneca before the oyster feed, and to help firefighters spot the hydrants more easily. Students dressed in paint shirts and gloves roamed town in small adult-led groups in search of fire hydrants. They were delighted with the results!